Executive Summary

This report summarizes the VCF's 12th year of operation, and marks the significant changes, challenges, and achievements of 2023. With the appointment of permanent Special Master Allison Turkel in March, the VCF began a new era of leadership, continuing to focus on the needs of the 9/11 community and building the tools to support the program's longevity. The Fund hit new milestones, awarding $12.8 billion to over 56,600 claimants since re-opening in October 2011. In addition, in 2023 the VCF decided more claims and issued more award dollars than in any previous year.

In 2023, the VCF redoubled its efforts to reach all those who may be eligible for compensation, meeting with Members of Congress and 9/11 advocacy groups, visiting both the Shanksville and Pentagon crash sites, hiring a new communications specialist, and participating in a wide range of activities profiled throughout this report. Focus remained steady on easing the burden on claimants by developing partnerships with organizations that may be able to help establish presence, and by investing in the ongoing VCF Transformation project. The VCF begins 2024 with great energy and enthusiasm to continue serving the incomparable 9/11 community.

A Message from the Special Master

I was very proud to step into the role of Special Master in March 2023, particularly as a native New Yorker and someone who was raised to respect and value public service. In the months since, I have been struck by many things that I hadn't fully anticipated – chief among them the need to inform the public about the VCF and to ensure that every person who might be eligible for a VCF award is aware of the program and has the resources and support they need to register and file a claim.

I have been astounded by the number of individuals I have spoken with – friends, people in the Federal Government, or who lived in New York or worked at the Pentagon – who do not know about the VCF. I am convinced that they represent a much larger universe of individuals whose health may have been impacted by 9/11, but who either have not made the connection, or simply don't think the VCF is meant for them. Through meetings with U.S. Representatives, local officials, 9/11 advocacy groups, and others, we were able to lay some important groundwork in 2023, and my commitment to outreach is a 2024 priority.

At the same time, the entire VCF team shares my strong commitment to resolving the claims before us as promptly, accurately, and fairly as possible, providing some small measure of relief to those who continue to suffer. As of December 31, 2023, the VCF has made awards to 56,640 individuals, totaling $12.8 billion in compensation since the VCF re-opened in October 2011. Detailed reporting of program statistics can be found on pages 19-24.

There is a wealth of information about the VCF's progress and activities included throughout this report, and I encourage you to read it cover to cover.

I want to thank our interim Special Master, Auggie Flentje, for his excellent stewardship of the VCF from May of 2022 until I came on board in March, and extraordinary efforts to keep the claim review process moving without delay. In his time with the VCF, Auggie decided 729 appeals and oversaw the completion of over 10,000 determinations. Thank you, Auggie!

In September, I announced the appointment of Nicole P. Smith as the second VCF Deputy Special Master. Filling this critical leadership role has been essential to being able to support the 9/11 community with a stable and accessible VCF. Nicole's appointment coincided with this year's anniversary – a time that afforded VCF leadership the opportunity to participate in a number of very meaningful events to honor the occasion (see pages 8-10).

In November, I was very proud to be the first VCF Special Master to visit the Flight 93 Memorial in Shanksville, PA, and to meet with the community. It was a true highlight of my year, along with an October visit to the 9/11 Pentagon Memorial in Arlington, VA (see pages 8-9). As depicted on the cover of this report, the VCF exists to serve victims from all three of the 9/11 crash sites.

In December, Stathi Patseas joined the VCF as Manager of Communications and External Affairs. Stathi has gotten off to a very strong start, and is pursuing a wide range of outreach opportunities. Read more about Stathi and our outreach efforts this year on page 8.

Throughout 2023, the VCF team expended enormous energy on our Transformation effort, focused on the creation of myVCF, our new claims system. myVCF will streamline and simplify the claims filing process, making it easier for claimants and families to file their claims and understand where the claim is in the review process. When myVCF launches it will use plain language with a guided claim form and easy-to-access directions to make registration and submission of claims and the required documents straightforward. When fully implemented, myVCF will speed overall claims processing, so we can pay claimants more quickly and efficiently (see page 13).

In preparation for the transition to myVCF, we made a special appeal in January 2023 to law firms that represent VCF claimants to help us by only submitting claims once they are in good order – meaning they include everything needed to begin review. Thoughout the year, we provided special reporting to firms with very specific information about what was needed on a claim-by-claim basis. This was a heavy lift for our team, but one that I am pleased to report seems to be paying off – with law firms waiting to submit claims only when they have all the required information and documents. I enjoy seeing this type of ongoing cooperation and partnership.

I look forward to the challenges and opportunities ahead, confident of the abilities and commitment of the incredible VCF team, and buoyed by the support of the 9/11 community and its dedicated advocates, lawyers, and medical professionals. It is an honor to serve as part of this community.

Nicole P. Smith Appointed Deputy Special Master

In September 2023, Attorney General Merrick Garland appointed Nicole P. Smith to be the VCF's newest Deputy Special Master. Nicole has dedicated over a decade of her professional career to the VCF because of the direct and positive impact it has on the American public.

Since the Fund reopened in October 2011, Nicole has served in various leadership roles touching most aspects of the program, including supervision of the public-facing Helpline, managing the team responsible for all outgoing correspondence, supervising the eligibility claim review team, developing a training program for new staff, and coordinating cross-team leadership efforts.

Nicole joined the Department of Justice in 2015 as an Attorney Advisor. The following year, the Special Master tapped her to lead the team of legal professionals dedicated to reviewing FDNY and NYPD first responder claims. Since then, she has held several leadership roles and served as Associate Special Master from 2020 to 2023.

Upon her appointment, Nicole noted that:

The ability to impact the lives of so many deserving Americans is both the greatest challenge and honor of my career to date.

Outreach

vcf.gov

Throughout 2023, the VCF conducted outreach activities focused on reaching as many people as possible with information about the program, how to register and file a claim, and ways to provide presence documentation. A vital tool continued to be the www.vcf. gov website, where materials are posted in English, Spanish, Polish, and Chinese. With more than 254,666 visitors in 2023, the VCF website is a central resource for claimants, potential claimants, and the general public. In addition to a wealth of general information about the VCF, answers to Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs), and program statistics, the website features clear and easy to follow step-by-step instructions on how to register and file a claim. This year, in an effort to distinguish the VCF website from others Special Master Allison Turkel coined the phrase:

If it is not .gov - it is NOT the VCF

Building Relationships

The VCF continued to expand its efforts to develop new relationships with entities that can help share information about the VCF and those that might assist with providing information to individuals trying to prove their presence at an eligible location. With the passage of time, it has become increasingly difficult to locate paperwork and documentation. The VCF is working with, and cultivating, a broad network of entities to help ease this burden of proof, working with organizations including BMCC, CWA Local 1101, and TWU Local 100, and the establishment of new points of contact at the New York City Department of Aging, U.S. Probation Office, U.S. Department of Labor, and the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey.

This year saw the results of a particularly rewarding partnership based on several years of coordination, when the VCF was able to obtain and reorganize hundreds of volunteer records for those who signed in at Trinity Church in the aftermath of the attacks. We are now able to use this information to assist in proving presence for the many volunteers who checked in and out at Trinity Church. This is particularly important because those who volunteered often have a more difficult time locating documentation to support their claim. What's new in 2023? The following updates were rolled out over the course of the year:

- New! Introduced Definitive Proof of Presence tool.
- New! Addition of Premature and Insufficient Claims reports (see page 12)
- New! www.VCF.gov website page on Transformation and release of a video on Transformation and registration
- New! Payment processing timeline shortened
- New! Addition of Non-Economic Loss Awards and Certified Conditions Fact Sheet
- New! Uterine cancer added as a covered eligible condition
- Created Proof of Presence process for: NY Department of Buildings, TWU Local 100, and Trinity Church volunteers
- Return to in-person hearings.

Need more information? Check out the complete VCF Policies & Procedures on the www.vcf.gov website. And remember: if it is not .gov, it is NOT the VCF.

We anticipate developing more relationships as conversations have begun with the Office of the NYC Comptroller, BNY Mellon, NYC Department of Sanitation, NYC Housing Authority, and the HHS Office of the Assistant Secretary for Preparedness and Response. The VCF is continually looking for new opportunities to provide information about the VCF and develop information-sharing relationships.

Expanding Outreach and Strategic Partnerships

In December 2023, Stathi Patseas joined the VCF as new Manager of Communications and External Affairs. In this position, Stathi will focus on expanding the VCF's broad outreach efforts, including developing a strategy to build awareness and understanding of the VCF, coordinating with the World Trade Center (WTC) Health Program and other 9/11 advocacy groups, working with various entities to establish relationships focused on easing the burden on claimants when filing a claim, and developing new outreach materials and enhanced public messaging.

Stathi is based in our New York office and brings a wide variety of experience to this role. Most recently, he served as Director of Communications and Intergovernmental Affairs at the NYC Civic Engagement Commission, where he managed external affairs strategies, including digital engagement and government affairs. He also worked as Assistant Director of Public Affairs and Community Relations at NYC Health and Hospitals Bellevue and has served as Communications Advisor in the office of the Mayor of New York City.

Communications and outreach are at the heart of our work to serve 9/11 responders and survivors. To explore partnerships and collaborative outreach efforts with the VCF, contact the toll-free VCF Helpline at 1-855-885-1555 or email vcf.outreach@usdoj.gov. Follow the VCF on Twitter/X at @Sept11VCF for VCF program news, updates, and information about outreach activities.

Visit to Shanksville, PA FLIGHT 93 NATIONAL MEMORIAL

When she was appointed in March, Special Master Allison Turkel began planning her visit to the Flight 93 National Memorial. She was honored to be the first VCF Special Master to visit this incredible National Park and was moved by both its beauty and deeply layered symbols of respect and gratitude for the bravery of the 40 passengers and crew who lost their lives on September 11th. Touring the National 9/11 Pentagon Memorial

The National 9/11 Pentagon Memorial is a very short ride from the heart of Washington, DC, but provides a serene space to honor the people whose lives were lost at the Pentagon that day.

Members of the VCF and WTC Health Program teams hear from Jim Laychak, Senior Advisor for the National 9/11 Pentagon Memorial.

There are 184 memorial benches, each dedicated to one of the victims, and organized in a timeline reflecting their ages, from the youngest, a 3-year-old, to the oldest, who was 71. Each bench is engraved with a victim's name and sits above a lighted pool of flowing water. The VCF team was honored to visit the memorial in October, along with colleagues from the WTC Health Program, to learn more about the events of 9/11 and its aftermath at the Pentagon and to honor those who died that day and those who have since become sick or passed away from their exposure to the toxins during the rescue and clean up.

Taking Part in 9/11 National Day of Service

Meal Pack aboard the USS Intrepid

Let's take back the day by turning the anniversary of 9/11 into a day of good.

The 9/11 National Day of Service is the outgrowth of 9/11 Day, an organization created by David Paine and Jay Winuk, who wanted something good to come from the loss of so many lives on 9/11, including Jay's brother Glenn, an attorney and volunteer firefighter who was killed while responding at the World Trade Center.

Thanks to broad based support, the 9/11 Day organization has transformed September 11th into the largest day of service in America, officially recognized under federal law, inspiring over 30 million people to volunteer and perform acts of service in cities across the country.

This year the VCF was happy to participate in New York City at the Meal Pack aboard the USS Intrepid, along with thousands of volunteers who assembled millions of meals for Americans at risk of hunger. www.911Day.org

Paying Tribute at the 9/11 Memorial Glade

On September 11, 2023, the VCF leadership team participated in a ceremony at the Memorial Glade, a space created in 2017 and dedicated to first responders, recovery workers, and those who have died or are suffering from health-related issues as a result of the attacks of 9/11.

Participating in the VOICES Symposium

The VCF was honored to participate in two panels at the 22nd Annual Remembrance Symposium hosted by VOICES Center for Resilience. This two-day event is a center point of 9/11 anniversary activities in New York City, and provides the VCF with an opportunity to speak directly to the 9/11 community and provide important program updates.

Visit to St. Paul's Chapel

Special Master Allison Turkel addressed the crowd assembled for the Calling of the Names at St. Paul's Chapel. This was the 22nd anniversary of this ceremony to honor all deceased 9/11 responders, rescue and recovery workers, and volunteers who came to help in the days, weeks, and months following the September 11th attacks.

VCF Appeals Process Continues to Serve

Since its earliest days, the VCF has considered the right to appeal a claim decision an essential part of the claim review process. Appeal hearings offer claimants an opportunity to tell their story to a hearing officer in a completely non-adversarial environment and provide important information about their individual circumstances through their testimony. The appeals process has grown and adapted over time, particularly during COVID, but it remains a central component of the claim review process.

The team of dedicated attorneys who serve as hearing officers conducted in-person and virtual hearings via videoconferencing and telephone. Through their dedication and perseverance, the VCF held 723 hearings in 2023, an increase of nearly 15% from the prior year.

The VCF Helpline: A Vital Source of Information

In preparation for the upcoming transition to the new myVCF system (see page 13), the VCF expended significant energy in 2023 on reducing the number of undecided claims. This included thousands of claims being screened for completeness and thousands more being decided. The VCF Helpline team, which serves as the public face of the VCF, worked tirelessly behind the scenes to support this effort and answer questions from claimants about their claims.

As a result of this work and increased outreach efforts, the Helpline experienced a 32% increase in calls in 2023 as compared to 2022, averaging nearly 200 more calls each month. With just eight full time members in 2023, this team handled up to 4,800 calls in a single month, all while onboarding and training new team members. In July, the Helpline Team was recognized by the Special Master for their incredible service, outstanding dedication, and unwavering support of the 9/11 community.

New York State 9/11 Notice Act

In September of 2023, New York Governor Kathy Hochul signed the 9/11 Notice Act, which will provide information to support 9/11 victims, survivors, and their loved ones. This new law requires businesses with more than 50 employees that were located below Canal Street in lower Manhattan on September 11, 2001, to notify all current and former employees who returned to work after the attack, of their potential eligibility for both the VCF and WTC Health Program.

Since the day the law was signed, the VCF has worked closely with the New York Empire State Development organization on the creation of an awareness campaign that is expected to rollout in late 2024. This legislation will be an important step forward in outreach to the 9/11 survivor community.

Premature and Insufficient Claims

In our 2022 Annual Report, we shared the VCF's challenge of dealing with Premature and Insufficient claims: claims that either are missing the minimally required documents, or the documents submitted are insufficient. As we noted, these claims present the biggest hurdle to the VCF's ability to reduce the time to decide claims.

Premature Claims are claims that are submitted without the basic supporting documentation to allow Preliminary Review to begin, or to be completed so the claim can move to Substantive Review.

Insufficient Claims are claims for which the minimally required documents have been submitted (either at the time the claim was filed or in response to a Missing Information letter), the VCF reviewed the claim, and the documents to support eligibility were found to be insufficient to establish the claimant's eligibility.

These minimally required documents include:

- Claim Form Signature Page
- Authorization for Release of Medical Records (Claim Form Exhibit A)
- Proof of the victim's presence at a 9/11 crash site (unless the VCF has a relationship in place to get the proof from a third party on the victim's behalf)
- WTC Health Program Certified Condition (or a VCF Private Physician Packet for those claimants who qualify for a Private Physician exception)

Since approximately 86% of VCF claimants are represented by an attorney, on January 25, 2023, the VCF held a meeting with law firms and introduced the concept of "In Good Order" claims. Although the VCF's use of the term "In Good Order" began in 2023, these requirements have been in place for years, and historically have been referred to as "minimally required documents and information."

The VCF cannot evaluate a claim without this documentation. On March 31, 2023, the VCF began sharing reporting on our "Premature and Insufficient Claims" with law firms and the public and continues this reporting on a quarterly basis. In addition, beginning in May 2023, any law firm with at least 500 submitted claims began receiving individualized monthly reporting to help them understand the reasons for their firm's premature and insufficient claims.

Since the VCF began this reporting, we are pleased to see an improvement in the completeness of new claims submitted by law firms, and the law firms continue to take action to resolve insufficiencies on claims already submitted.

If you have a pending claim with the VCF, you can help! There are two key areas that help the VCF decide claims more quickly:

- Make sure you have submitted a complete claim, which includes the minimally required documents noted above. To see the documents you have already submitted to the VCF, log into your claim at https://www.claims.vcf.gov/Account/. Login and check your "View Documents" tab.
- 2. Respond to any VCF requests for missing information by the deadline in the letter.

If you have a question about the status of your claim, need online access to your claim, or want to know if we have everything needed to decide your claim, call our Helpline at 1-855-885-1555, or contact your attorney if one is representing you for your claim.

VCF Transformation

The VCF team is committed to transforming systems and processes to better serve the 9/11 community. In September, the VCF released a short video by Special Master Allison Turkel on why registration with the VCF is important, even if you are not sick, and how the VCF is transforming for the future.

The Transformation mission remains the same: to reduce the time to issue awards to VCF claimants by designing a modern, victim-centric claims system supported by streamlined business processes and automation.

At the heart of VCF Transformation is the implementation of myVCF, a new online claims system, which will launch in 2024. myVCF will make it easier to file a complete claim and will reduce the time it takes the VCF to review and pay claims. To learn more about Transformation and myVCF visit www.vcf.gov/transformation.

SEPTEMBER IIth

myVCF users can expect:

Easy to follow guidance and instructions providing help exactly when it's needed.

Simplified forms that ask targeted questions based on the individual's circumstances.

A dashboard to easily understand where your request is in the process, what actions we are taking, and what actions we are waiting on you to take.

Self-serve options for requests that are handled manually today, such as updates to personal information and changes of attorney.

E-signature enabled for all critical forms – no more paper copies!

User-friendly screens with easy-to-understand navigation.

As part of our broader outreach effort, the VCF developed an informational post card to hand out at events and provide to entities such as the 9/11 Memorial and Museum to have on hand for visitors. It includes the VCF's new QR code for quick access to additional information.

World Trade Center Health Program Partnership

Throughout 2023, the VCF continued its strong collaborative history and partnership with the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH), which administers the WTC Health Program. The two entities worked together on a range of joint outreach efforts, such as a training for staff at the Clinical Centers of Excellence (CCEs), and Nationwide Provider Network (NPN), enlisting NIOSH's support in sharing accurate and timely information with Health Program members.

The two programs are both focused on serving the 9/11 community and worked throughout the year to provide helpful information and important outreach. VCF leadership attended monthly meetings of the WTC Health Program's Responder Steering Committee to report on our progress and outreach efforts, and met with the WTC Health Program's Survivor Steering Committee to introduce the new Special Master and provide an opportunity for questions.

While the VCF and the WTC Health Program work together very closely, they are distinct programs, and an individual must register with the VCF and enroll in the WTC Health Program separately. Several other important distinctions are detailed below.

How the Programs Differ

The VCF has received claims from individuals in every state in the nation, as well as Puerto Rico and abroad.

Program Results

The VCF team, fortified by the appointment of a permanent Special Master in March, once again proved itself to be intensely committed to its mission and to the 9/11 community, with an unwavering focus on getting claims reviewed. In 2023, the VCF found 8,287 individuals eligible for compensation, notified claimants of 11,347 award determinations (7,834 initial award determinations and 3,513 award on amended claims), and awarded $1.8 billion, making the VCF's total dollars awarded $12.8 billion since reopening in 2011. These results reflect the synchronized efforts of the entire VCF working together to ensure that all of its various functions support the claimant population and every aspect of claims processing. The overall statistics for the year, The Year in Numbers (found on page 6), documents the team's impressive output, from number of letters sent, payments processed, and calls to the VCF Helpline, to the number of claims expedited, hearings held, and pieces of mail processed.

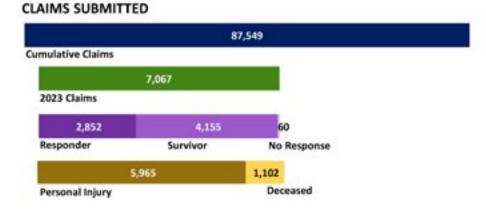

Additional 2023 year-end and cumulative claim statistics appear beginning on page 19, VCF Program Statistics, with a series of charts reporting on key data points and important trends, including the number of VCF registrations, claims filed, and award determinations by claim type and claimant type.

A final important statistic to be reported relates to the costs of administering the fund, which the VCF works very hard to keep as low as possible while helping to reduce the burden placed on claimants and maximizing claims processing speed and efficiency. These costs include technology and facilities costs, such as the software and hardware to develop and maintain the claims system and rent for VCF offices; salaries for over 225 staff who run all areas of VCF operations, answer calls to the Helpline, process incoming mail, and work with claimants and law firms to complete unfinished and inactive claims, as well as for the VCF's staff attorneys who review claims for eligibility and compensation and render decisions on claims; and costs associated with various Department of Justice offices that support VCF payment processing, information system security, and the budget and funding process. As of December 31, 2023, the VCF's administrative costs remain less than four percent of total spend.

Annual Reassessment

The VCF Special Master is required by statute to annually reassess whether VCF policies and procedures appropriately prioritize funding for claimants who are suffering from the most debilitating conditions. In 2023, the Special Master remained committed to reserving higher awards for those claimants who demonstrate that their conditions severely impact the activities of daily living, and to expediting claims for those who are suffering from terminal illness or are facing significant financial hardship. A total of 382 claims were expedited in 2023. The VCF continually evaluates processes and policies to ensure that those who suffer most are adequately compensated.

NOTE: This chart incluses only those comparisation determinations for which the claimant has been notified by the VC in writing of the amount of their award. Once a claimant is notified, the determination is counted on this chart, but is sefficient in the most in which the award was finalized and determination (award, the fail award, not in the most in which the claimant award) in the VC in posses includes a series of quality checks that are completed before a claimant is notified. These quality checks may take seenal works or longer. This moves that there are claims for which substantive review has been notified in a ward. We seenal works or longer. This moves that there are claims for which substantive review has been notified in a ward. This also means that the monthly numbers shown have for prior months will charge from on a report to the next, as claims completed in earlier months finish the quality check process and claimants are notified.
